About Weed & Seed...

Weed & Seed is a strategy originally created by the federal government in 1991. The strategy brings together a large and varied array of resources in a comprehensive and coordinated effort to control drugs and crime and improve the quality of life in identified high crime neighborhoods.

The initiative's name describes a two-pronged or two-strategy:

-To "weed" out violent offenders using intensive law enforcement and prosecution efforts.

-To "seed" neighborhoods with prevention, intervention, treatment and revitalization services & activities.

Weed & Seed is a community driven initiative. The initiative calls for the recognition and development of community leadership within the neighborhood. Weed and Seed is a collaborative effort involving neighborhood residents, the public and private sector, and state/local government all working together on strategies to improve the neighborhood.

The basic idea is that the neighborhood is best equipped to identify and prioritize its issues and arrive at solutions. This is done with open communication and cooperation with law enforcement efforts.
